Product Safety Notice

Linx radio frequency ("RF") products may be used to control machinery or devices remotely, including machinery or devices that can cause death, bodily injuries, and/or property damage if improperly or inadvertently triggered, particularly in industrial settings or other applications implicating life-safety concerns. Linx Technologies product is not intended for use in any application without redundancies where the safety or security of life or property is at risk. Consult Linx product documentation at www.linstechnologies.com for additional safety and use information.

The customers and users of devices and machinery controlled with RF products must understand and must use all appropriate safety procedures in connection with the devices, including without limitation, using appropriate safety procedures to prevent inadvertent triggering by the user of the device and using appropriate security codes to prevent triggering of the remote controlled machine or device by users of other remote controllers.

DO NOT USE THIS OR ANY LINX PRODUCT TO TRIGGER AN ACTION DIRECTLY FROM THE DATA LINE OR RSSI WITHOUT A PROTOCOL OR ENCODER/DECODER TO VALIDATE THE DATA. Without validation, any signal from another unrelated transmitter in the environment received by the module could inadvertently trigger the action.

DO NOT US THIS OR ANY LINX PRODUCT IN ITS DEFAULT ADDRESS MODE. Some Linx products have default address setting for validation of RF transmissions. Another Linx module or remote nearby used in different application may be set to the same default address.

ALL RF PRODUCTS ARE SUSCEPTIBLE TO RF INTERFERENCE THAT CAN PREVENT COMMUNICATION. RF products without frequency agility or hopping implemented are more subject to interference.

DO NOT USE ANY LINX PRODUCT OVER THE DESIGN LIMITS. Excessive voltage or extended operation at the maximum voltage could cause product failure. Exceeding the reflow temperature profile could cause product failure which is not immediately evident.

DO NOT MAKE ANY PHYSICAL OR ELECTRICAL MODIFICATIONS TO ANY LINX PRODUCT. This will void the warranty and regulatory and UL certifications and may cause product failure which is not immediately evident.
